Little common ground found at noise forum

By KAREN PETTERSON

San Bruno residents pleaded for their homes; labor leaders pleaded for jobs. About the only thing everyone could agree on was that the airplanes currently serving San Francisco International Airport are too noisy and something should be done. The disagreements centered on just what that "something" should be.

The scene was the College of San Mateo's Little Theater on Saturday, where members of the San Mateo and San Francisco counties' joint powers board gathered to listen to the final public reaction to their Joint Land Use Study that has been two years in the making.

Rising from the audience to speak were representatives from anti-noise groups, citizens committees, city council members, private citizens, airline representatives and members of airline and airport employees' unions.

They came to talk about the recommendations made by the joint committee on noise mitigation programs that will lessen the impact of takeoffs and landings on neighboring communities, as well as bring San Francisco International into compliance with state noise laws by 1986.

The proposed actions include:

- Creation of the Office of Community Affairs to report directly to the airports director.
- Creation of a sophisticated noise-evaluation procedure which will allow the system to relate recordings of complaints to actual aircraft operations.
- Certain changes in flight patterns which the joint powers board has proposed for a 60-day trial period.
- Creation of a maximum noise limit for any aircraft operating at SFIA.
- A voluntary pilot program to insulate homes against noise, to cover 10 percent of the homes in the 70 CNEL area at a cost of $1 million.

Long-range, last-resort measures would include:

- Purchasing 700 homes in the areas where the noise is higher than allowed by state law, at a cost of $44 million.
- Building at least one new runway, requiring substantial bayfill, at a cost of $1 million for one runway.
- Strictly limiting airport growth, which could severely impact air passenger travel and shipping.

Several speakers at Saturday's forum suggested the expanded use of both Oakland and San Jose airports as an alternative to San Francisco. However, with San Francisco's passenger volume expected to double in less than 10 years, others pointed out that rechanneling traffic to the two other Bay Area airports would not result in any reduction in currrent traffic levels.

Representatives from Citizens Action League in San Bruno decried the "last resort" proposal to purchase homes in that area.

"We will not be victims of avaricious, short-sighted plans," said Virginia Welch. "And we also should not have to endure continued noise."

"What we want most of all is a maximum noise limit," said CAL's Lea Anderson. "We don't really care how you do it. Part of your 'solution' has been to tell us that you can't solve the problem."

Peter Cervantes-Gautschi, head of the San Mateo County Labor Council, explained labor's position, designed to protect as many jobs as possible.

The workers are opposed to a flight curfew, as has been suggested by some, that would limit takeoffs and landings to the hours between 6 a.m. and 11 p.m. Such a curfew would result in the loss of several thousand jobs, he said.

Cervantes-Gautschi suggested that the joint powers board pressure the state to revise its noise laws and to concentrate on single-event noise levels.

Roseann Emerson from the Serramonte area of Daly City said she was "uncomfortable with the plans." She stressed the safety aspects of the airport and said "noise and safety go hand in hand."

A maximum night noise limit was proposed by Ellie Larsen of the Sierra Club, who urged that the board take a regional view of the problem.

"We are against noise shifts to other communities," she said.

Hillsborough Councilman Henry Howard enforced the call for a regional overview. He urged the board to take a leadership role in viewing the noise mitigation process on a regional basis.

"The people of Hillsborough don't want to shut down the airport," he noted, "but they do want it made less noisy."

Earlier in the day, airline manufacturers had shown slides and films of various actions they have been taking to refit their aircraft to meet noise laws.

"I am heartened by what I learned of their research," said Lenore Bravo of San Francisco, "but we're told it's too expensive to produce the quieter engines at this time. If it was a bomb, I'll bet it wouldn't be too expensive."

The joint powers board is scheduled to adopt the noise mitigation recommendations after considering the final input received at Saturday's meeting.

Nearly a year after Jonestown: 'The memories are always there'

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Staff Writer

It has been nearly a year since the Rev. Jim Jones and more than 900 of his Peoples Temple followers died in Guyana.

On that same Nov. 18, 1978, date, San Mateo County Congressman Leo Ryan and three journalists were gunned down at a jungle airport near the Jonestown compound.

For the survivors of that tragedy and for the relatives of the dead, the scars have not healed.

"I keep wondering whether this will ever end for me," says Jacqueline Speier, 29, Ryan's former legal aide. She was shot several times at the Port Kaituma airstrip. She has undergone 10 operations to repair the extensive damage she suffered that day. Several weeks ago, doctors found a second bullet lodged in her arm. She has another in her pelvis.

"When they found that bullet it was like someone had dropped me back on the airstrip again," she says now." "It was a real trauma."

The bullet will probably be removed in December, she says.

She says her injuries have left her with a weak right wrist. Soreness persists in her right arm and leg as well. "I can cope with the pain," she says.

"But these have been difficult months for me. I am awakened in the middle of the night with nightmares. For a long time, I was acutely sensitive to loud noises."

In April, she says, she crumbled during a tribute to Ryan in Foster City. A surprise 21-gun salute did it. "It was as though someone had thrown me into a washing machine and put me on rinse. I just broke down that day."

Jacqueline Speier

The lowest point came in July. "I thought I was doing fine by that time," she says. She was sitting out by a swimming pool at her Burlingame townhouse complex when a firecracker went off. Says she, "I began to cry into my towel."

She is writing a book and, sometimes, she says, that work brings on only painful and bitter memories of Guyana, Jonestown and all the rest.

She has decided to forsake Washington, D.C., for now. She intends to live here on the Peninsula and begin a legal practice soon. She has kept piles of documents and records relating to Ryan and his work stacked in her garage.

She has spent a lot of her time speaking out on the issue of religious cults and she has worked on political campaigns for Peninsula and San Francisco candidates.

In spite of the fact that she lost her own bid for Ryan's seat last spring, she says she was encouraged by her showing.

She says she is beginning to settle down and relax in the town where her parents live. "It's good to be home," she says.

Tim Carter, 31, says he can never come home again.

Carter, who grew up in the same Burlingame neighborhood with Jacqueline Speier and all of their contemporaries in the late 1960s and early 1970s, has been on the other side of the Jonestown fence.

He lives now in Boise, Idaho, near his father. Carter's younger brother, Michael, lives with him. Tim Carter works for a Boise travel agency. Michael works for an electronics firm.

The Carters were in Jonestown at the time of the deaths. Both escaped, along with Michael Prokes, into the jungle. The trio was held for questioning for a time in Georgetown, Guyana. The Carters have testified before a San Francisco federal grand jury. No charges have been filed.

Prokes shot himself to death March 13 in Stockton, an act which shocked Tim Carter. Says he, "For a long time, Mike was my best friend. Even at the end, I don't think that he had been able to reconcile the fact that Jones had misled us. If he had wanted to show people what Jonestown was really like, suicide was the last thing he should have done."

Tim Carter says he knows that families of victims here regard him with distrust and hatred.

For example, he says, "I know that Jacqueline Speier dislikes me intensely."

Advertisement for housing specialist 'not for DC area'

A small advertisement in a box in the Wall Street Journal has raised some eyebrows in the Jefferson Elementary School District because of its timing and suspicion about the motives of the San Mateo County Department of Housing and Community Development.

The HCD ad, buried among many others for managers and financial experts, was headed "Housing Development Specialist" and read:

"San Mateo County needs a Housing Development Specialist $22,260-$27,560 a year. Contract position. To prepare applications for financing of low and moderate income housing. Prefer 4 years direct housing development experience in public or private sector." It asked resumes be sent to the county personnel office in Redwood City.

The JESD Board of Trustees and a large group of St. Francis Heights residents in Daly City were just beginning to breathe a bit easier after an Oct. 17 public meeting at which city and school district officials promised to do everything in their power to prevent a low and moderate income housing project from being built on the 23-acre Savage school site just down the hill from Mary's Help Hospital.

But JESD Trustee Alvin Schwarzback spotted the ad in his copy of the Wall Street Journal Oct. 24, and the red alert went out.

The Savage site is one of about 80 scouted by the HCD in its quest for suitable places to put the housing projects asked for by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, which would finance most of them. A proposal by the county to acquire the Abraham Lincoln School site in Westlake met with a crescendo of neighborhood opposition last month, and the county promptly backed off, sending a letter saying it no longer is interested.

HCD Director Mark C. Nelson said Monday that the county for now has dropped consideration of the Savage site also, since the school board has not declared it surplus.

"That isn't to say we wouldn't be interested in the future," he said, "but until the school board declares the site surplus, there's nothing we can do." He reiterated the county's policy that it won't go to a condemnation suit because they're costly and time-consuming - up to three years of litigation.

The housing development specialist being advertised for "would have nothing to do with the sites in Daly City," Nelson said, expressing surprise that it should cause concern there.

The county supervisors authorized the position over a year ago and applicant interviews began in February, Nelson said, but the job was advertised in the national business newspaper because the county wasn't satisfied with the quality of the applicants who responded last winter.

"There's no cause for alarm," he went on, noting that the new position would be strictly to work with outside agencies on funding and would not involve selection or acquisition of sites.

The HCD has had not had the same reactions from other areas of the county as it has from Daly City, Nelson said, adding he can understand the local feelings.

Consultants last year pinpointed the 80 potential low- and moderate-income housing sites around the county, including the Lincoln, Savage, and Olympia and Crocker school sites in Daly City.

Nelson said Olympia was deemed to be too small and "not in the best location" for this type of housing - in the midst of better middle-class homes and next to a country club - and Crocker wasn't considered suit-

Will DC become 'religious sex' home?

Will Daly City become the site of a new national political party headquarters and "the home of religious sex?"

A former restaurant and disco at 2660 and 2666 Geneva Ave. promises to become one of the more where-it's-at places in Daly City, if the owners of the buildings get their way.

Frustrated at being put off by what they consider endless red tape and constantly-changing regulations for establishing a new business there, the owners have announced that they are about to enter into long-term lease agreements with organizations called the Church of God in Sexuality and the Poor People's Political Party for use of the buildings.

An anonymous press release announced angrily that "Since the owners of the property do not care to operate the bar, restaurant and disco themselves, and since the cretins in the Daly City bureaucracy have succeeded in discouraging all prospective lessees or purchasers, the owners have decided that to protect themselves for their investment, they must rent to some business or businesses which are not dependent on the vagaries of the uncivil service of Daly City."

The lease agreements are being reviewed by attorneys of the parties now, according to Ron Zimmerman of San Francisco, agent for Zanzibar, Inc., the owner of the adjoining buildings at Geneva and Rio Verde Street, a half-block east of the Cow Palace.

The Church of God in Sexuality was described as "a 'new wave' religion which is also protected by the freedom of religion provisions of our Constitution, even from the self-appointed arbiters of right and wrong who infest Daly City's governmental offices.

"Let's see how the Daly City fathers like having public lessons in 'creative masturbation' and 'achieving orgasm through religious sexuality' and other similar lecture topics, with demonstrations and co-ed seminars. The national press is expected to publicize this church extensively, and forevermore Daly City will be known as the home of religious sex."

A Rev. Williams, reportedly the head of the Church of God in Sexuality, could not be reached for comment.

City Director of Planning and Community Development Don Fleming said there has been no specific proposal before the city yet for use of the property. He confirmed that there had been problems with the operation of the restaurant and disco there, but noted that a church must have a city use permit, "as churches always do."

James Conway, president of the Oakland-based Poor People's Political Party, said Tuesday his group is new but has plans to expand nationally, "with offices in every city and county in the United States."

The PPPP, formed in February, was certified in May by the state Secretary of State and Franchise Tax Board as a non-profit organization, Conway said, and now is looking toward expansion. The Daly City office would become the national headquarters, he said, and is a "perfect location" because "It's just across the street from a lot of people with no knowledge of what the political process is all about."

Zimmerman suggested that one of the PPPP's methods of political activity may be rallies on broad, heavily-traveled Geneva Avenue, and "Wouldn't the city love that?"

Conway would say only that rallies are planned by his group all across the country, and that "We hope we will be able to use that headquarters to build rallies. It has great possibilities that we'll be able to do a lot of things on Geneva."

Himself a candidate for San Francisco supervisor in 1977 and state governor in 1978, the latter of which he said "never got off the ground," Conway, who is black, said his group is multi-racial and hopes to represent the 80 percent of the people in the country who are considered poor.

It is these they hope to get

Little progress said in strike

There has been little to report from either side in the strike, now in its ninth week, by the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 against the Jefferson Union High School District.

The negotiating teams are meeting regularly at the Dunfey Hotel in San Mateo, but both sides have stopped making public statements of optimism about any progress. The AFT had been the most enthusiastic about progress until Oct. 23, when the talks abruptly ended for two days over a disagreement about grievance procedure clauses in the contract.

"Now, we're just backing off progress reports entirely," AFT spokesman Tom Fitzpatrick said Tuesday.

"It's hard to put a value judgement on the talks at this point," district spokesman Dave Shepard said.

The negotiators met from 2 p.m. Monday to 3:30 a.m. Tuesday and were to return at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

District attendance figures at the six schools for Monday showed 4,157 students, or 63 percent of the enrollment, in class, along with 162 AFT teachers, or 54 percent, along with 150 substitute teachers.

Fitzpatrick reported 50 to 55 percent of students attending school, with about 32 to 35 percent of the AFT membership going to work. One more teacher "went in" Monday, Fitzpatrick said, but noted "There hasn't been much slippage, and I'm continually surprised at that, considering the length of this strike."

were members of Our Lady of Angels Church in Burlingame. Both were involved in the parish teen club. Carter was in the Class of 1966 at Serra High School in San Mateo. Ms. Speier was in the Class of 1968 at Mercy High School in Burlingame.

Terry, and her husband and child, Jonestown claimed many other young people with roots in Burlingame, including: Sharon Kislingbury, Kim Brewster, Mary Lou Meyer Clancey, and Brian Bouquet.

In all, there were more than 30 persons with San Mateo County affiliations who died in Guyana last year.

"I deeply regret all of the deaths," says Tim Carter. "There is such frustration. Years of work have been thrown away."

Carter was one of Jones' chief aides. Carter and his sister joined Peoples Temple early in this decade. Many of their friends on the Peninsula followed them.

Carter says he originally became involved with Jones because he believed that Peoples Temple was going to change society.

"But I was duped," says Carter today. "Everyone was. I hate that man (Jones) for what he destroyed."

He says the violence that ended Jonestown and the whole Peoples Temple movement was "an outrage." Says he: "Words are meaningless now. It was horrible."

For the relatives of the Jonestown victims, it is still a terrible burden.

Many of them refuse to discuss the matter publicly. Others do so reluctantly and with great feeling.

"It's been very rough," says Roland Meyer of Santa Cruz. He is the father of Mary Lou Meyer Clancey.

"We visit Mary Lou's grave every week and we're going to have a memorial Mass said for her on Nov. 18 down here."

He says Mary Lou's husband, Tim Clancey, another former Peninsulan who met Mary Lou through Peoples Temple, had wanted her body cremated but that was prevented by a court order obtained by the father.

"We're kind of sour on that subject," says Roland Meyer. "Her husband has just kind of disappeared."

For a time after Jonestown, Clancey had managed the San Francisco office of Peoples Temple.

Graham Kislingbury Jr., brother of Sharon Kislingbury, says he remains bitter about the lack of action on the part of the U.S. government.

"The government has been inept," he says. He lives in Oregon where he works as a newspaperman.

"I've tried to put all this behind me," he says. "But it will always be there. I miss my sister. We all do. At times it still hits me pretty hard. In a way, she is still with us."

Clare Bouquet, mother of Brian Bouquet, says she is still fighting to force the government to do something about the deaths.

Mrs. Bouquet, a Burlingame public school teacher who lives in San Mateo, says, "I'm still doing what I can. There has been a huge government coverup and not a thing has been done about it."

Julie Brewster Schilling of San Mateo, Kim Brewster's sister, says she has gotten through the last year "pretty well."

She says things were rough back in January when Kim's ashes were returned to the United States.

Since then, however, she says her personal life has worked out positively. She has married.

"I know that some of the families are still not doing very well and that's a shame," she says.

Fred Brewster, father of the girls, was not so lucky this year.

Not only did he lose his daughter, but he also suffered serious gunshot wounds in April.

A cab driver in San Mateo, he was held up and shot by a passenger in the East Bay.

It took him weeks to recover from the injuries.

Julie says her father is back at work now. Says she: "He is all right."

As Jonestown begins to fade from the public's consciousness, was there anything to be learned from it?

Jacqueline Speier believes that, if anything positive can be found in the Peoples Temple affair, it might be in relation to the role of parents.

"If there are 3 million American young people presently in religious cults — and that figure is probably about right — and if a quarter them are unhappy and want out, then it is up to their parents and relatives to do something about it," she says.

She says Jonestown has taught us that passive acceptance of our childrens' plight is not the way to go.

"Nothing will change unless pressure is applied," she says. By that she means that the judicial system must be made to accommodate parents who want their children back from the hands of cult leaders, no matter their stripe.

"To a great degree," she continues, "the hands of parents are tied."

But, she emphasizes, that must not prevent them from forcing the issue.

For Tim Carter, the first anniversary of Jonestown is far from pleasant.

"I've been bracing myself for it," he says. "After it's over with, maybe things will finally quiet down."

involved, registered to vote and possibly to support any candidates the PPPP may offer in the future, although it hasn't gone that far yet, Conway went on.

The PPPP wants the building on Geneva, and "If we find people attacking us, they probably will be the ones to be moved, because they'll be dealing with the people," he said of any Daly City attempts to turn down the PPPP use of it.

The PPPP would make private investigations of candidates for purposes of endorsements, then would give them time to explain their positions in private, if they wished, Conway said. This, he thought, would be preferable to open candidate forums, where, he said, "I don't believe they can be truthful."

The first PPPP endorsements, in the San Francisco election of Nov. 6, include Cesar Ascarrunz for mayor, Arlo Smith for district attorney, Eugene A. Brown for sheriff, and Harry Britt, Doris M. Ward and Nancy Walker for supervisors. Ascarrunz is Latino, Brown and Ward are black and the others white.

The Geneva property until two years ago housed the Old Plantation restaurant and disco, but noise and other problems kept city police and health inspectors busy, and the place finally was foreclosed by the owners after a former tenant pulled a knife on a health inspector, Zimmerman recalled.

But since then there have been an least eight attempts to open new businesses at that location, but "The police and city hall have objected as if all bar owners are bad," Zimmerman charged.

City officials would give one prospective tenant or lessee a list of things to be done on the property, and another prospect a different list, and even told one he would need an environmental impact report, which could take six months, Zimmerman said.

In the meantime, economics are taking a hand. The building has a $250,000 loan on it and the owners are paying $2,100 a month on it with nothing coming in, he said.

An alarm is credited with saving lives

A smoke alarm was credited Tuesday with saving the lives of a Daly City couple whose home suffered more than $50,000 damage early this morning.

Firemen said the residents of the house at 1092 Wildwood Drive, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Williamson, were alerted just after 4 a.m. Tuesday by their smoke detector.

Williamson told firemen he went outside when the alarm went off and discovered a fire in the basement garage area.

Williamson also noticed gasoline leaking from the automobile in the basement garage, which caught fire seconds later.

Firemen arrived at 4:19 a.m. and said the whole basement area and the front of the house was involved. It took 14 men about 15 minutes to quell the blaze. There were no injuries other than smoke inhalation and minor cuts to firemen.

"It was a very intense fire," said one fireman who was on the scene. "If the owners were not alerted by the smoke alarm, it is doubtful they would have been able to get out of the two-story structure."

Structural damage was estimated at between $40,000 and $45,000, while damage to the contents of the home was estimated at upwards of $10,000.

Firemen said they are uncertain as to the cause of the blaze.

Post Staff Writer

One of the Daly City Police Department's "old-timers" said good-bye Friday when Mrs. Josephine Runne covered her typewriter for the last time and retired after 24 years.

Mrs. Runne began her career with the city as a clerk-typist in 1955 and a year later became confidential secretary to the police chief, then Roland Petrocchi and now David Hansen.

Mrs. Runne said, "It's been a good job and I've really enjoyed it."

She has been happy where she was and never considered becoming a sworn uniformed officer.

"I've watched the things our officers go through, and it's become almost a thankless job," she said of the rising tide of paperwork and adverse court decisions that have enveloped police work over the years.

It has been the difficulties of present-day law enforcement that played a part in her decision to take an early retirement at age 55, instead of waiting until she's 62, the pleasant Daly City woman said.

"I'm tired of working," she listed right off as her first reason, but being inside and around the top of the department, "I hear all these things that go on, and it's beginning to reach me."

The murders, rapes, robberies, beatings and all the other things with which a police officer must cope "didn't bother me so much when I was young, but it does now," she said, adding that she can easily understand why sworn officers can retire now at age 50.

It can get to everyone eventually, she said.

Her only actual police work was as a matron some years ago before the department had any women officers. When, she recalled, she was told to strip search a female prisoner.

"I asked if she had anything in her possession, she said no, and that was it," Mrs. Runne said.

She and some other women got some matron training later, but she never needed it, she went on.

The steadily increasing size of the Daly City department and requirements for more paperwork on each case has meant a heavier workload for police over the years, she said.

"When I started we wrote reports on just a card, with just the basic facts. Now, everything has to be in them," she noted.

When she began as the chief's secretary in the old station, she knew everyone in the department. Now, with nearly 100 people, "I see a new officer when he first comes in and we issue him equipment. Then he goes on nights or somewhere and I may never see him again," Mrs. Runne commented.

This led to an embarrassing situation one night a few years ago when she called the department about a parked car in front of her home and a young officer responded to investigate.

"I wanted to introduce him to my son, but I forgot his name. During the conversion the officer asked 'Should I know you?' and I told him I was the chief's secretary and I couldn't remember his name. I was so embarrassed."

After moving out of the department's intimate old station on Wellington Avenue into modern quarters in the new Civic Center in 1971, Mrs. Runne recalled, "It was like moving into a mansion. But now it's getting too small, too."

The work in her two-woman office, which makes appointments, screens calls and answers correspondence for the chief, is being done now by Mary Cronin, who replaced Muriel Mermon after the latter retired in 1978 after 18 years; and Annie Pacheco, who transferred a few months ago from the department records section.

Mrs. Runne said she gave Hansen her retirement notice a year ago and now is "looking forward to enjoying life a little bit."

Staying home and being a regular housewife will be a part of the plans for at least another couple of years, she said, until her husband of 32 years, Edward, employed by Standard Oil Co. in Richmond for the past 30 years, decides to retire.

Looking toward her retirement, Mrs. Runne has passed up this season on the Twilighters, her bowling team with which she had been rolling for 15 years.

She and her husband probably will travel some, she said, and spend time at their home at Lake Tahoe.

If you want to see elephant seals, you can take the bus

Buses from the Hillsdale Shopping Center in San Mateo to Ano Nuevo State Reserve on the Coastside, to enable visits with the elephant seals, are again available, the State Department of Parks and Recreation announces.

The San Mateo buses will take two groups each morning, with the cost of a round-trip from San Mateo set at $5 per person.

Reservations for tours, made directly with the reserve (for those going in their own cars) are still available for weekdays from Dec. 10 through 21, and March 1 through 14, by phoning between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Other tours are already filled up.

The bus tours have already reserved spaces in the state preserve tours, an Ano Nuevo spokesman said.

ably located, either. The school district since has sold Crocker.

"I think it was good the residents spoke up on the Lincoln site, since it's the last open space in Westlake," Nelson said.

Wherever a HUD-financed housing project goes will depend much on timing, he said, with the county having to be able to move if and when a school district declares a school site surplus.

The JESD originally had plans for an intermediate school at Savage, but shelved them in the face of declining enrollment.

It recently leased the parcel to the Daly City Skylions Club, which is fencing it off and building athletic fields and recreational facilities there as a community project.

The trustees have indicated that the site won't be for sale in the foreseeable future, because potential growing enrollments may require another school in that area.

Morrice, Didia for JESD board

There are no incumbents in the race for two positions on the Jefferson Elementary School District government board. After careful consideraton of the qualification and priorities of the four candidates on the Nov. 6 ballot, and individual interviews, we believe the voters of this district should elect Carole A. Didia and John G. Morrice to these two positions on th board.

Mrs. Didia, who is a bookkeeper as well as a homemaker, has served as a classroom volunteer in the district for six years and has worked effectively on several board-appointed committees. She has a solid grasp of the most important issues facing the school administration and the community. She is first vice president of the Jefferson Council of PTAs and the director of parent education for the 17th District council of PTAs, which includes all of San Mateo County.

Like Mrs. Didia, John Morrice is making his first attempt at election to a public office. He has been active in school, church and parent organizations and has shown a sound understanding of the requirements for quality education coupled with economy. He rightly emphasizes the need for better communication between school administrators and the credentialed and non-credentialed staff, in order to improve teacher morale and effectiveness.

For these reasons, The Post recommends thelection of Carole A. Didia and John G. Morrice to the governing board of the Jefferson Elementary School District on November 6.

Serramonte bazaar Nov. 3-4

The Daly City Skylions, the Confection Connection, the Fund for Animals, the San Bruno Rainbow Girls and the Daly City Garden Club are a few of the non-profit organizations that will have both on the mall during the annual Fall Community Bazaar at Serramonte Shopping Center this weekend, Nov. 3-4, during regular mall shopping hours.

Over 30 groups will participate by offering handmade and home-baked goods for sale to raise funds for their charitable endeavors. Booths will be decorated by the groups, and prizes for best design and costuming will be awarded by the Serramonte Merchants Association.

The group winning first place will also have its name engraved on a large perpetual trophy donated by the Daly City Skylions.

Other organization participating this weekend are Soroptomists International, the Royal Order of Caritas, League of Women Voters, California Music Teachers Association, Catholic Daughters of America and several Bethels from Jobs Daughters.

Serramonte Shopping center is located just off Highway 280 at Serramonte Boulevard, Daly City.

GENEVA CATTLE DRIVE

Scores of cattle head up Geneva Avenue today in a "cattle drive" heralding last Friday's opening of the 35th annual Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show, and Livestock Exposition at the Cow Palace in Daly City. Approximately 630 cowboys, 2,700 horses, and over 3,000 livestock are entered in the 10-day show.

Halloween

Mary's Help Hospital urges caution

Halloween is an exciting time for children — a fun celebration filled with parties, costumes and special treats. Yet Halloween is also fraught with potential dangers.

Each year the Mary's Help Hospital's emergency department staff receives calls or visits involving Halloween-related accident victims. These incidents could be prevented by taking simple safety precautions.

"Parents occasionally call expressing fears that their child may be suffering from poisoned homemade treats collected and eaten during door-to-door rounds," said Roger Taylor, M.D., medical director of emergency services.

"While most cases are regular stomachaches from eating too much," he continued, "parents sometimes find it difficult to distinguish between symptoms of over-consumption and those of actual poisoning."

If parents do feel the child is displaying unusual symptoms, however, they should seek medical advice immediately from either their family physician, the hospital emergency service, or the Poison Control Center (431-2800).

"But these situations of possible poisoning can be prevented altogether through foresight and simple health precautions," said Dr. Taylor.

A happy Halloween may be ensured by following these safety suggestions from Mary's Help Hospital:

- Make sure a teen-ager or adult accompanies all children as they "make rounds."
- Encourage children to remain in their local neighborhood and to stop only at familiar homes. Explore the possibility of forming a block group with an insignia designating "a safe home" to the child.
- Instruct children to bring all their "goodies" home to show you first. If you think they might nibble along the way, give them a special sackful of candy or fruit for this purpose.
- Sort out all the "loot." All candies which are in the original wbappers may be eaten. Do not eat any of the rest unless from a friend that the parent knows. Examine food carefully to make sure there are no holes or it has not been rewrapped, since this may indicate it has been altered.
- All fruits, from friends or not, should be cut in half to check for foreign objects such as pieces of razor blades.
- No homemade foods should be eaten unless it is from good friends.
- Assist in designing costumes which are brightly colored. Try to use a bright-colored scarf, tie, belt or vest in the costume. Encourage children to go during daylight hours.
- Set a good example by giving out Halloween treats such as prewrapped candy or sugarless gum.

Good morning, good cooks.

What's breakfast like in your house — ho hum — the same old thing? Then it's time for a change and a wonderful opportunity to start the day feeling good, satisfied and ready to tackle whatever the day promises.

No question about it, the first meal of the day is vital and it should supply the proper nourishment for the entire morning's activities. But there is no rule that says it has to follow a rigid pattern. Variety is exciting and a change in the menu is the perfect bait to lure healthy appetites to the table for the added pleasure that eating provides.

A sandwich for breakfast — and why not? Most children are peanut butter and jelly "fiends," and it is shown here in this menu that promises to be an eye-opener for the adults as well.

Hearty peanut butter (2 tablespoons) and jelly sandwiches prepared with homemade Nutty Cereal Bread, a moist, tender bread made with crunchy nutlike cereal nuggets.

A complete breakfast including the sandwich, 1 whole orange and 1 (8 oz.) glass of milk provides one-fourth to one-third of the recommended daily allowance of key nutrients for children aged seven to 10 years. Substitute a 4-ounce serving of orange or grapefruit juice, in lieu of the whole orange, and you still have the day's quota for vitamin C.

NUTTY CEREAL BREAD

1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup crunchy nutlike cereal nuggets
1 cup milk
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons shortening, melted

Mix the one and three-fourths cup flour, one cup sugar, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder and teaspoon salt. Stir in the three-fourths cup cereal. Blend the one cup milk, beaten egg and two tablespoons melted shortening. Add flour mixture, stirring just until all flour is moistened. Pour into well greased and lightly floured 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour, or until cake tester inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Slice and fill with peanut butter and jelly, if desired.

For easier slicing, store bread overnight wrapped in waxed paper, plastic wrap or aluminum foil.

Orloff paces Rams to a victory

Westmoor High quarterback Tom Orloff struck up his one-man band Friday, and the Rams waltzed to a 28-14 football victory over visiting South San Francisco.

Westmoor (2-2) was an easier victor than the score would indicate. The Rams pulled ahead 28-0 in the fourth quarter, before replacing a majority of the starting line-up.

Orloff passed and danced downfield for most of Westmoor's offensive yardage. Through the air, Orloff connected on nine of 22 for 113 yards, and also led the Rams' ground attack with 37 yards and two touchdowns. Westmoor's entire offensive output for the game was just 176 yards.

In a similar role, running back Carl Montgomery was the South City offense. Montgomery dashed for 126 yards on 21 carries, including a 42-yard touchdown scamper in the final seconds of the contest.

The Warriors managed just 144 yards total offense.

The key factor in Westmoor's win was its superior defense. The Ram stoppers didn't allow South City a first down until midway through the second period, and then just five for the game. Westmoor intercepted three passes and recovered both of South City's fumbles.

The Westmoor defense tried to give its offense a score early in the first period. Keith Dowdell pounded on a mishandled pitch-out to give the Rams first and goal on the South City one-yard line. But a stout effort by the massive South City defensive line denied a Westmoor score on four straight downs.

South City couldn't take advantage of the ego-booster, and punted the ball away to set up Westmoor's first score. The Rams drove 52 yards, mostly on the passing of Orloff, to put the initial points on the score-board. The touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by Darren Jones.

The Westmoor defense continued to keep the heat on South City quarterback Ken Gates with a hard-charging pass rush, and on the Warriors' next possession it paid off with a recovered fumble.

Westmoor took over on the South City 37-yard-line. On the first play, Orloff found speedy Stuart Ramirez for 25 yards to set up another touchdown. Three plays later, Orloff snuck the ball across the goal line, and Westmoor led 14-0 with 2:16 left in the half.

The third quarter was uneventful until late in the period.

An interception gave the Rams the ball on the Warriors' 23-yard-line. Orloff scrambled for 10 yards and again snuck the ball over for a TD to just about cinch the victory early in the fourth quarter.

Westmoor cornerback Dan Pliwaa put the game away with an interception and a 32-yard return to the South City three-yard line. Only a saving tackle by Montgomery kept Pliwaa from taking the ball all the way for the score.

But it didn't really matter. Two plays later Adrian Waters sprinted around the right side for two yards and a Westmoor 28-0 lead.

COMPETING TONIGHT

Pacifica resident Patricia Grandov will compete in the barrel racing tonight at the Cow Palace.

Pacifica resident competing tonight

Pacifica resident Patricia Grandov has come a long way to overcome her fear of horses.

Not only is she riding them, but tonight she will compete in the girls' barrel racing event at the 35th Annual Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition at Daly City's Cow Palace.

The 42-year-old competitor has not let her age or her late start keep her from enjoying barrel racing to its fullest. Although she rides to win, she said she mostly competes for her own pleasure.

As she raced around the outdoor arena at the Coastside Corral in Pacifica last week, it was hard to imagine she ever had a fear of horses. With her waist-long blonde hair flowing out behind her and a big smile on her pretty face, she was the picture of relaxation.

But Mrs. Grandov did not overcome her fear of horses until the age of 25, when she simply got tired of sitting on the fence and watching everyone else have fun.

It was the fear of being hurt that had kept her off a horse until then.

"I used to see all these movies where somebody got hurt," she said.

She happily noted that the worst injury she has suffered was a deep wound to her pride, when she fell in a huge mud puddle during a show. Other than that, she has suffered nothing more serious than a bad bruise.

After winning several competitions for exhibiting her horse, Mrs. Grandov felt it was time to tackle something more challenging.

Barrel racing is a timed event, with the horse and rider competing against the clock. The object of the race is to circle three barrels in a triangular formation as fast as possible.

Her best time is about 18.5 seconds.

Younger women barrel racers, who concentrate full-time on competition, have times of several seconds less. Mrs. Grandov does not expect to place tonight (she also raced Tuesday), but again stressed she races because she enjoys it.

"It makes me feel alive," she said. "I like staying active. Other people my age just sit around and are really blah. Barrel racing gives me something to do, keeps me feeling good."

It takes several years to work with a new horse, according to Mrs. Grandov, who said she supplies the "guts and stamina" and depends on the horse for "a lot of speed and the urge to run."

"Without a good horse, you can't make it," she said. "You can be an expert rider but if you have a horse that doesn't have speed...It just takes time. It's like getting to know a husband."

Her husband, Steve, is her No. 1 fan, she said, and travels with her when she competes on weekends in rodeos throughout Northern California.

The track record with Nipper is not the best right now, but Mrs. Grandov looks forward to improving her time — and to maintaining her optimistic attitude.

"We haven't won anything, but we haven't been last either," she said with a laugh.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Of course you love your kids, but you wouldn't be human if you didn't have moments of gratitude for the peace and quiet that descends upon your home when they're back in the classroom.

But peace is dispelled all too soon when the slamming of the outer door announces the arrival of the first child home. Then comes the opening and closing of the refrigerator door and kitchen cupboards throughout the afternoon.

OH, WELL, you say, growing kids are always hungry.

True, but it's still a good time to think about the kind of afternoon snacks you're providing for your children. They should be nutritious as well as tasty.

Many kids consume too many worthless "junk" foods such as pastries, cookies, doughnuts, soft drinks, potato chips, candy, pretzels, etc. which contain far more refined flour, sugar, salt and fat than the body needs. These worthless foods pile on the calories but do not provide a youngster's body with the nutrients it requires to function and to grow. They're especially harmful for a child who tends to be overweight.

Instead of junk food, make sure your retrigerator shelves are stocked with plenty of fresh fruits in season and crunchy vegetables in the form of carrot, celery, green pepper strips, and tomatoe wedges. Fruits and vegetables provide essential minerals and vitamins that the body doesn't get from junk foods. There's something to tempt every palate, from sweet-tasting carrots to tart-tasting oranges.

YOU'LL BE surprised how tastes can change. A crunchy apple or succulent pear can become just as satisfying as a cream-filled cupcake.

For those kids with a persistent desire for a crunchy sweet after school, whip up Chocolate Squares, a very tasty Diet Workshop recipe.

WOE IS HE
It was a rough afternoon for Jefferson High quarterback Richard Rodgers (11) as Half Moon Bay High upset the Indians 6-0 Friday in Half Moon Bay. First Joe Zebro (62) sacked Rodgers, then Scott Bayliss broke through a wall of pressure to harrass him as he attempted to throw a pass.

Prep football upset

Half Moon Bay hands Jefferson first loss

By RICK EYMER
Times Correspondent

One Half Moon Bay High football coach figured the Cougars had picked the wrong day for homecoming.

The Cougars are thin, not very big and not very quick.

They were hosting unbeaten Jefferson, the No. 2-ranked team in the county, the team with the dream backfield, the team everyone thought had passed its last obstacle on the way to a North Peninsula League title.

Some homecoming for Half Moon Bay.

And it was.

The Cougar defense wouldn't die, and Half Moon Bay had heroes for its homecoming dance Friday night after a stunning 6-0 upset of visiting Jeff.

Jeff outrushed and outpassed the Cougars, gaining 218 yards to HMB's 107. But Half Moon Bay had a nose for the big play on defense.

HMB is now 2-1-1 in the NPL (2-4-1 overall); Jefferson is 3-1 (4-1 overall) and tied for first place.

It was apparent from the beginning, when Half Moon Bay took the opening kickoff 65 yards in 20 plays only to fall short on the Indian three-yard line, that the Cougars were going to be tough.

All nine of Half Moon Bay's first downs came in the first half. The eighth was a 28-yard touchdown pass from Charlie Baker to Tim Bettencourt. The extra-point attempt failed.

Jefferson running backs got their share of yardage, as usual, but failure to make the big play, costly penalties—and the Half Moon Bay defense — stopped the Indians short of the goal line.

Jeff quarterback Richard Rodgers ran for 40 yards and passed for 66 yards, mostly on a sore left knee suffered early in the second quarter. Sam Smith gained 52 yards and Doug Cheatum rushed for 60 yards, well below average.

The Indians came close to scoring twice. The first was late in the first quarter when Smith broke free for a 20-yard gain. But as he neared the goal line, a Cougar defender popped the ball free, and HMB's Frank Damato fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchback.

BREAKING UP IS HARD TO DO
Half Moon Bay defensive back Doug Warner (7) foils a Jefferson High receiver from snaring a pass in Friday night action. A good play by the offensive player, however, stopped Warner from intercepting the aerial. HMB stunned visiting unbeaten Jefferson 6-0.

The second Jeff chance came in the third quarter as Cheatum broke loose for an apparent 69-yard touchdown run that was called back because of a penalty.

After that, the Cougar defense dominated — particularly Phil Plath and Mike Stone. Both played well on the defensive line. In addition, Pat Quinlin, Joe Zebro, Jeff Coats and Mike Seaton were there to make a big play or two.

The biggest play of all might have been in the fourth quarter when Jefferson was beginning to drive.

On a fourth down and inches to go situation with 10:08 remaining to play, the entire HMB defense swarmed to stop the attemped Jeff run and keep the ball away from the potentially dangerous Indian offense.

Bettencourt intercepted a pass with 2:39 left, but the Cougar offense (which netted minus five yards in the second half) couldn't run the clock out, and was forced to give Jeff another shot at it.

But a trick screen pass lateral failed as time ran out, and Half Moon Bay had its biggest win since the Cardiac Kids of '77.

"This has to be the biggest win ever," said Bettencourt (who ran for 76 yards on 33 carries). "We never expected this. We just wanted to stay close to them. We went with our game plan and we made it work. It was a great effort by everybody, but I think the line won it for us. It's beautiful."

"I can't believe it," said Cougar assistant coach Neil McNevin. "We played better than we are capable of. This kind of game is the only reason you coach high school football. It's unreal. We may be smaller and slower than anybody, but no one has more guts."

The Cougars visit Terra Nova Friday night while Jefferson travels to Oceana.

Regents find emotion, roll past Oceana

By MIKE FICHER
Times Correspondent

Serramonte High's football team had just suffered through a miserable first half against winless Oceana.

The defending North Peninsula League champions mustered only two first downs and 43 total yards while registering eight penalties, one turnover, seven punts — and no points.

"We weren't playing no kind of football in the first half," star linebacker-running back Darryl Williams noted.

And the senior standout let his teammates know about it in no uncertain terms as they were warming up for the second half.

Not only did Williams tell the Regents what had to be accomplished, he went out and showed them how to do it.

Williams intercepted three passes in the second half, returning one for the go-ahead touchdown, and snared a six-point aerial from quarterback Robert Williams to lead Serramonte to an inspired 27-7 win over the undermanned Sharks Friday.

The victory earned Serramonte a share of first place in the NPL with Jefferson, which was upset by upstart Half Moon Bay Friday. Both are 3-1.

Surprisingly, Williams noted, the Regents made no strategic adjustments in the second half—just "head" adjustments.

"Coach (Ken Cook) talked to us at halftime and put our heads into it," he said. "We weren't playing football in the first half, but we made no adjustments. Just drove it down their throats and drove it down hard."

"In the second half, we played," Cook said. "We had a little talk with our kids, did an inspirational job and got our kids to play with the pride we know they're capable of. We're an emotional team, and we just weren't playing with the emotion it takes for us to win. We finally got our kids to play with pride."

Pride is an important ingredient in the Regent victory formula, since Serramonte lacks the size to match up with other NPL clubs.

"We got some gutty players. They wanted to play a little football in dhe second half," Williams said.

"We need togetherness. We're not that big. We gotta have the smallest team in the league by far. We just outquick teams and out-think them. In the second half, we really out-thought them."

Certainly Williams won a thinking duel with Oceana, which completed as many passes to Williams in the second half as it did to its own teammates.

"I was reading his (the Oceana quarterback's) keys. He would pump and then he would look away, and I'd go to the other side and he'd throw there every time," said Williams.

Williams' first interception, midway through the third quarter, set up the Regents' first score, a seven-yard pass from quarterback Williams to running back Darryl. The Serramonte star picked off a second Shark pass in the third quarter and took it in himself from 42 yards out for the game-winning touchdown.

Cook noted that Oceana's winless slate may have been a factor in the Regents' sluggish first half effort.

"You can't overlook a team like Oceana. They're a good football team. With a few more numbers they'd be a superior team. But it's hard to sell the kids on that. They read the papers, and that's why we came out a little flat in the first half," said Cook.

An inspired Serramonte flattened Oceana's offense in the second half, limiting the Sharks to just 27 yards. While Cook noted it was a team effort, he singled out safety Jeff Jones for praise.

"I can't say enough about him. Their tight end was about a foot taller than he, and he did a super job on him. We didn't give him any help all day long, and when we did he told us to take it away because he was getting in the way."

Bowling tourney

Grand Knight Ray Thurman announces that Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual Family Bowling Tournament Nov. 4, at 2:15 p.m. at Serra Bowl, Junipero Serra Boulevard and "D" Street, Colma.

Nine trophies in four categories will be awarded to the best bowlers.

Foosball Spear's thrust

Tommy Spear. Good sports name. But unless you're a foosball aficionado you've probably never heard of him. Chances are, in fact, that you've probably never heard of foosball, either.

For a sports fan to go around not knowing of such matters is tantamount to a chess fan not knowing what Scrabble is. So I will explain, guaranteeing that you will know as much about such matters as me. And that will assure you of a sports IQ at least the equivalent of Julia Childs.

Tommy Spear is the national foosball champion. Foosball is a table game, very big in Germany (where it originated). Spear describes it as a cross between golf and chess; it looks to me more like a table soccer game.

Foosball is played on a table about 3 feet high, 2 feet wide and 4 feet long, with a hard plastic ball about 1½ inches in diameter, which is controlled by four metal bars on the table, the object being to get the ball into the opponent's "net" or goal.

SO FAR, none of this may impress you, but any athlete who has to work out 40 hours a week jogging, weight lifting and practicing his game, who keeps sharp by playing chess and staying strictly on a high protein diet, and who can make $25,000 playing a table game for keeps several times in an eight month period, impresses the HELL out of me.

Especially when he's only 19 years old and didn't take up the game until his high school days, until that time doing more normal things like playing football and basketball, running track and crashing motorcycles.

I found out all of this last weekend, when Tommy played a tournament, sponsored by Tournament Soccer, the foosball table manufacturer who put up $50,000 in prize money, at the Lemington Hotel in Oakland.

The 50 grand was divided among four divisions (pro, master, novice, rookie) where participants played singles, doubles, and mixed doubles.

Spear had a heavy cold and finally wore done on a gruelling weekend schedule that ran up to 14 straight hours of competition one day, and finished in the runner-up spot.

But, as I said, anybody who can win $25,000 playing a few table game tournaments since just February, is impressive finishing first OR second.

SPEAR, who has parlayed sharp eyes and quick hands into a national foosball title, didn't get involved in foosball until it got to be such a fad among Aurora, Colo. (where he lives) high school students, that one almost had to play to be one of the gang.

"At first," recalls Tommy, "I didn't like it. At 25 cents a game, it seemed like a big rip-off. But then I got hooked."

Indeed he did. Although such a clean-cut young man would never gamble at games, it got so that after a while it wasn't him paying that 25 cents. And then he ran out of local competition and, by the time he had enrolled last year in Arapaho Community College in Littleton, Colo. he had given up all other sports to concentrate on foosball, in which he had discovered he could actually make a profit.

Not that Spear plans to make foosball a lifetime career. He'd eventually like to go into law. But right now he's riding the crest of what seems to be a rapidly growing indoor table sport.

Le Pacini

The 2,000 attendance at the nationals doesn't seem like much until you realize that national billiards championships, for one example, don't usually draw that much.

So Tommy Spear is going to ride the wave all the way in.

"It's a good feeling," he says, "to be one of the best at something."

AN ARTICLE in a recent Sporting News did an evaluation of the effectiveness of the college draft by the 28 teams in the NFL, and concluded that Dallas and Pittsburgh, based on their 45-man rosters at the time the article was published, have been the most successful drafting teams in pro football.

Dallas had on its squad 35 players who were original Cowboy choices, while the Steeler roster turns up no player who has ever cavorted for another NFL team. The Cowboys, incidentally, had two.

Worst NFL drafting team is — you guessed it — Washington, which is still suffering from the effects of the George Allen Syndrom (never accept a player who doesn't remember Glenn Miller). The Redskins have only seven draft choices.

The 49ers are tied for 24th with New York, at 22 original draft choices, though they do well with second rounders, having seven of them.

Only Oakland (9) and Seattle (8) have more, and only Buffalo and Detroit as many. Aside from that, the 49ers haven't managed to hang on to too much.

Oakland with 32, is fourth, while the only teams worse than the 49ers are Philadelphia, Tampa Bay and, of course, Washington.

Cincinnati has retained the most first-round choices, with 11, followed by the Rams, Vikings and Patriots, all with 10. Oakland and the 49ers each have five.

There's nothing wrong with the 49er defense that

What do you do when the neighbors' dogs knock over your garbage can, scattering garbage over your lawn, and letters from your creditors over the neighbor's lawn?

In The Complete Book of Pitfalls the answer may be found, but you won't like it.

"Go out, pick up the garbage and put it back in the can. Your neighbors will take care of the letters."

"How can you hold your temper when the hangers get into a terrible tangle in your closet? You can't. Next time place all the hangers the same way and, if you have too many, have the courage to throw some away."

What makes shoes in the closet turn green and cattails start to grow in the corner of the living room? Humidity. To solve the problem you need a dehumidifier. In Pitfalls, Dereck Williamson tells you how to purchase the right one and where to put it.

PITFALLS (McCall, $5.95) is subtitled A Victim's Guide to Repairs, Maintenance, and Repairing the Maintenance.

It is written by the humorist, Williamson, to help the "poor handyman or handywoman who is fed up with those monthly magazines that make it look easy to jack up the house or raise the roof or fix the kitchen." It is a guide for the guy who has done what the experts say and needs such common sense answers as: pick it up or throw it away or use the proper tool. The New York Times Book Review called the Complete Book of Pitfalls enjoyable and subtle and the topping for the serious how-to books that are on the market.

But, when you have a leaky faucet that won't stay fixed or you have grease spots on the garage floor or on the driveway, it's not a laughing matter.

Then you need Arthur Symons' The 'Fix-it Book (Gramercy) $1.80). This little volume tells you how to unplug drains, unstick the windows and lubricate a "sick" appliance.

Symons preaches prudence.

"Begin by doing easy things and only go on to more difficult projects when you have mastered the simple ones. Don't move in on a potentially dangerous or costly project without thinking things through. Even more important, follow the safety rules to the letter."

Follow this simple advice, Symons says, and "the day will come when you can take care of simple breakdowns without complete dependence upon plumbers, carpenters, gardeners, mechanics and painters."

Popular Science's Complete Book of Home Repairs and Maintenance (Popular Science $8.95) is a clear, practical guide to home upkeep. In this title the author, Jackson Hand, discusses tools and working facilities, and keeping utility systems in repair and repairs to the structure of your home. He attacks such problems as sticking doors, dripping faucets and short circuits. He includes a homeowner's 4-season checklist that suggests that systematic inspections and repair prevents breakdowns and costly repairs.

The members will meet in the Coral Room of the War Memorial Building in Daly City, 6655 Mission St., for this pre-holiday session.

In addition to Mrs. Ventrella's formal demonstration and talk, there will be a question and answer period, an opportunity to win one of an assortment of indoor and outdoor plants assembled by Fred Adams, and time to question Louis Filarski about practical tips on indoor and outdoor gardening.

Mrs. Grace Cannova and Mrs. Carol Alba will provide refreshments.

On this coming weekend the garden club will have a booth in the mall of the Serramonte Shopping Center where shoppers will be able to purchase plants and a variety of boutique items. Proceeds from the sale will go to the Penny Pines Foundation to be used in reforestation programs.

Spear big in sports — well, in foosball anyway

some sharp tackling wouldn't cure. The 49er defenders always seem to get to the guys with the ball, get their hands on them and then watch them slip away.

Conclusion: The 49ers would be Super Bowl champs if they were playing touch-tackle.

– Bill Russell, in his auto-biographical-philosophical new book, "Second Wind," makes an excellent observation, one of many, on the threat of gambling in the NBA:

"High salaries (for athletes) are . . . a protection against corruption. A professional athlete would have to be crazy to take bribes today. I've always thought the most likely targets of gamblers would be referees. They make peanuts, they're highly abused both by the fans and players, and they have more control over a game than anyone else. Moreover, the normal incompetence of NBA refereees would be a perfect disguisefor a corrupt one. . . ."

QUICK TRIVIA QUIZ: 1) What team introduced the first black player to the NBA, and who was he?

2) There have been five players who have won Heisman trophies as juniors. Name them.

3) What was the first radio broadcast of a sporting event?

ANSWERS:

1) The Boston Celtics, and it was Chuck Cooper. Cooper, a 6-5 forward from Duquesne, broke in with the Celts in 1950-51 and played with them for four years. He then went on to Milwaukee for a season and finished his pro career the next year with Ft. Wayne.

2) Archie Griffin (who also made it in his senior year to be the only player to have even won two Heismans), Ohio State; Roger Staubach, Navy; Doc Blanchard, Army; Doak Walker, Southern Methodist, and Vic Janowicz, Ohio State.

3) The Dempsey-Carpentier fight for the heavyweight championship on July 2, 1921. It was broadcast over WJZ, NBC's flagship station in New York.

El Camino stops TN

El Camino High celebrated its homecoming with a 14-9 North Peninsula League football contest over Terra Nova High at Clifford Field Friday night.

The Colts had a little bit of passing, a fair amount of running and a lot of defense to raise their NPL mark to 2-1-1 while the Tigers fell to 2-2 in league play.

Terra Nova drew first blood after Eric Walters pounced on a muffled punt return at the El Camino 10-yard line. Andreas Wolf connected on a 27-yard field goal (his fourth of the year) to give the Tigers a short-lived 3-0 lead.

The Colts struck back quickly, going 70 yards on nine plays five minutes later to take a 7-3 advantage. Rob Canepa found Bill Aguero open in the end zone with a four yard toss. Much of the drive was consumed by the running of Matt Kosta, who accounted for 38 yards of the drive on five carries. (Kosta wound up with 49 yards on eight carries.)

Terra Nova took a 9-7 halftime lead when Rick Miller connected with Mike Childs on a 12-yard touchdown toss with 11 seconds remaining in the first half. Miller had a fine night passing, gaining 231 yards through the air, completing 18 of 43 passes.

Contest Rules

1. Select the winner of each game by placing an "X" in the box on the margin side of the team you think will win. If you predict that the game will end in a tie, place an "X" only in the column headed "Ties" between the two teams. If the game ends in a tie, credit will be given only to contestants who predict the tie.
2. Write the total net yards (rushing and passing) that you think the designated team will make in the box provided. This estimate will be used only in case of ties between two or more contestants.
3. Clip and mail the entry blank to

FOOTBALL CONTEST
San Mateo Times
P.O. Box 5400
San Mateo, Calif. 94402

4. Entries must be postmarked prior to midnight Thursday of this week or delivered to The Times prior to 5:30 p.m. Thursday of this week. The Times is not responsible for entries lost, delayed or destroyed or which fail to reach The Times by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.
5. A $25 cash prize will be awarded to the best entry submitted each week. An additional $25 will be awarded if the best entry is submitted by a Times subscriber or the entrant indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted. In the event a winner cannot be determined by use of a tie-breaker, the prize money will be divided equally among the eligible contestants who tied for the week's best entry. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the additional $25.
6. A $100 cash prize will be awarded to a Times subscriber, or entrant, who indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted, who selects all 15 games correctly. In the event two or more entrants select all 15 games correctly, the tie-breaker will not be used. IT'S SIMPLE...
BUT WORKS WONDERS
A nail builds tall buildings . . . bridges canyons and rivers . . . makes toys . . . ties communication lines to utility poles . . . holds things together.
The newspaper is a simple idea that works wonders, too. It moves merchandise . . . doctors the economy . . . distributes jobs . . . finds people to do jobs . . . informs, educates and entertains.
When you want to sell, buy, rent, hire or announce . . . think of the simple idea that works.

TO EACH HIS OWN (Dave Dornias photo)

As they waited for a bus to take them home, kindergartners from the Happy Hall School in San Bruno were clutching pumpkins they had spent much time selecting at a pumpkin patch. Today and Tuesday, they'll have to decide the perfect way to fix them up for The Day, Wednesday.

Girl reported accosted, thrown to ground

A 16-year-old girl was terrorized by a man claiming to have a gun in his pocket Friday as she walked to El Camino High School on Old Mission Road in South San Francisco.

Police reported the arrest on attempted kidnap charges of a 30-year-old Daly City man, David Gregory Miller of 21 Crestwood Drive, 20 minutes after the incident.

The victim, police said, told them she was walking north on Evergreen Drive shortly after 8 a.m. when a white Cadillac drove up alongside her and the driver asked directions to the high school.

The girl gave the driver directions, but he appeared confused and asked several times that she get in the car with him and show him personally, according to the authorities.

The girl became frightened and told the driver she had to get to school. At that point, police said, the man allegedly simulated a weapon in a sweater pocket and said, "You'd better stop. I have a gun in my pocket."

But the girl continued to walk away.

The man, according to a police news release, assertedly got out of the car, grabbed the girl and threw her to the ground.

However, her loud screams, police said, prompted the man to release his hold on her and she got up and ran to the nearby house of a friend, who called the police.

Officer Bob Collins arrested the suspect in the same general area, at Old Mission Road and Holly Avenue, police reported.

SSF center financing straightened out

The South San Francisco City Council has learned that it will not have to dip into city funds to provide additional funding for the new municipal services building.

Council members had been told the city needed another $224,000 to pay for remodeling the former Value Giant on El Camino Real as a police and fire station.

But financial consultants told the council last week that it would not have to use federal revenue-sharing funds and money from the city's budget to pay the difference in costs.

Through "conservative" investments, the city can earn enough money on the bond proceeds and an advance on the first year's rental fees to finish paying for the project.

The low bid for the project has come from Arntz Constracting Co., which bid $3.43 million. The department store will be remodeled into a police and fire station and other city offices.

When you look around, you quickly discover there are a lot of real estate companies in our area; and in the crowd, they all seem to look alike.

But there are differences, big differences: the kind that can save you precious amounts of your time and money.

OUR PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE!

All RE/MAX agents are full-time, sales professionals. They pay their own business operating expenses — so only full-time, successful people can afford to be associated with RE/MAX. Most RE/MAX agents have had several years experience before joining our company; and this contributes substantially to the quality service you receive.

ABOVE THE CROWD YET STILL DOWN TO EARTH.

By keeping our down-to-earth values and putting our clients first — we've been fortunate to experience tremendous growth, adding new and valuable services to continually serve and satisfy our valuable clients — people like you.
